1. The Schwerin-Goerries (M 54/T 46) airfield was not occupied by aircraft. Most of the allotment gardens (Schrebergärten) had been removed. The landing field was serviceable. The barracks to the north of the field were occupied by Soviet Army soldiers. A radio station was located northwest of the field. It consisted of a wooden cabin, and four antenna masts approximately 20 feet high which were arranged in a square. The billet of the Bauunion Firm was on the eastern edge of the field.*

25X1A6a  Comment

The condition and status of the field has apparently not changed since 17 August 1949. The occupation of the barracks by Soviet Army units was previously reported.

25X1A2g See  This is the first information on the radio station at the field. Presumably this is an Adcock direction finder station.
